

Lilly and Matthias Koch are happy to welcome each and every new dog guest into their home. On long walks through the Vienna Woods, there is always something new to marvel at.

Part of the family

At Hart Hills, dogs are treated like family members and never more than five privileged canines are accommodated at any one time to ensure full attention for each guest.

In the midst of the Vienna Woods, a lovingly revitalized, traditional country house in Altlengbach – dating back to 1820 – awaits the lucky dogs, offering a 3,000 square metre outdoor area with various rest and adventure zones for playing and relaxing. In addition to access to the spacious main house, which dog hotel guests can explore during their stay in the company of the host family, they also have a barn measuring over 100 square metres as a retreat and playground. It was love that lured the English-born Lilly-Maria Koch to Austria 30 years ago. Even as a child, she loved dogs and has lived and worked with them since. In 2019, she fulfilled her lifelong dream with the Luxury Dog Hotel “Hart Hills”. She knows from her own experience what it is like to have to leave your “dog children” behind and now wants to do everything she can to ensure that her canine guests are cared for and looked after in the best possible way, with individual care, daily walks and plenty of yummy treats.
